Walkout Secrecy Invoked

Pittsburgh Steel, Union Officials Refuse to Talk; Suspensions Lifted

A curtain of secrecy today fell over the labor troubles in Pittsburgh Steel Company's Monessen plant.

Both company officials and the United Steelworkers union refused to comment on a meeting held yesterday to decide the fate of 13 blooming mill workers who started a five-day wildcat strike last week.

The men were suspended by the company, and yesterday's meeting was to discuss the suspensions.

It was reported unofficially that the men were reinstated and will return to work Monday morning.

But Donald C. Duvall, the company's vice president-industrial relations, refused to confirm this report. He also did not deny it.

'Private Affair'

"We consider the meeting yesterday a private affair between the company and the union," Duvall said. "I have no other comment."

Reminded that the company itself had publicly announced the suspensions while the strike was in progress last Monday, Duvall repeated:

"No comment."

George Kutska, USW District 13 staff representative, also had a "no comment" when asked about the meeting.

Anthony Ortolona, Local 1229 president, was unavailable as of noon today.

The five-day strike started last Thursday and ended Tuesday after nearly 400 workers in the blooming mill voted to go back to their jobs when the company agreed to discuss the suspensions with the union.

To Ask Reinstatement

Prior to yesterday's meeting, Ortolona said he would ask that all 13 men be reinstated immediately.

It was learned from rank-and-file sources today that the men will be reinstated beginning Monday.

The men were suspended, the company said last weekend, for "instigating and participating in a strike" in violation of the three-year contract the company signed with the union last year.

The 13 men walked off their jobs to protest to reassignment of jobs in the blooming mill's billet yard section. The strike closed down the entire blooming mill for five days, idling 400 workers there. The walkout also resulted in 80 employes being furloughed in the open hearth department.

The blooming mill resumed normal operations at 4 p. m. yesterday.

Showers Bring Some Relief To Drought-stricken Area

Shower activity promised to bring some relief to drought-stricken western Pennsylvania today.

At U. S. Lock No. 4, Monessen, the rainfall early this morning was recorded at only .02 inches. That was just enough to barely wet the area.

However considerable rainfalls were reported at locks further up the Monongahela River. At Fairmont, W. Va., 1.32 inches of rain fell.

"That rainfall should make some impression on the Monongahela water pool," a spokesman at the Monessen lock said.

In recent days, the river has receded to one of its lowest stages in years. Only the elaborate system of flood control dams has managed to keep the Monongahela navigable.

Shortage Eased

Just enough water is being released daily from the dams to maintain a stationary reading. At Lock No. 4, the upper gauge shows 14.3 feet of water; the lower gauge 10.3.

If the river drops any lower, there will be no water spilling over the Monessen dam.

Reportedly there is enough water backed up in the flood control dams to keep the Monongahela supplied at its current level through mid-December. That eases the threat of a water shortage to communities along the river.

However some water companies in Westmoreland County have asked consumers to conserve.

Just two feet of water remains in the Herminie Water Works. Residents of Sewickly Twp., served by the firm, have been asked to discontinue watering lawns and to conserve water in the bathroom.

Some Shortages

The Westmoreland County Water Authority which serves sections of Rostraver Twp. and West Newton, has a two-month supply on hand.

Communities served by the Authority of the Boro of Charleroi have no water worries as long as the Monongahela River holds out, it was reported.

Today's anticipated showers will not undo the damage caused by the summer-long drought, but they will help.

Classes Resume At Centerville; Strike Is Over

CENTERVILLE, Pa. (UP) — Classes resumed at Centerville Junior and Senior High School today with near-normal attendance.

"Everything is back to normal," Principal James Harris said.

The 640 students staged a strike Wednesday in protest to a 20-minute lunch hour. Only half the student body returned to classes Thursday despite the plea of Supervising Principal Glenn Harshman.

Enrollment of the Washington County school originally was reported at 798.

At nearby Republic in Fayette County, about 300 parents attended a Redstone Township School Board meeting protesting the closing of Allison No. 1 and Royal grade schools. The Allison No. 1 and Royal pupils now attend classes at Brier Hill grade school, about three miles away.

Only 15 of the 60 transfer pupils were at school today. The school board voted 4-3 against reopening the Allison No. 1 school and 5-2 against reopening the Royal school. The board also accepted a bid of $3,200 from an Allison No. 1 resident for purchase of the grade school in his community.

Car Damaged by Drifting Auto

A car operated by Frank Hussar, Belle Vernon, was slightly damaged by a drifting car on Sixth St. last night about 8:45, police reported today.

According to police, an unoccupied car belonging to Sam Stern, of Kisor Rd., Monessen, drifted away from a parking stall and into the path of Hussar's machine.

Police believe another car had backed into the Stern machine causing it to move backwards into the street.

McKeesport Man Hurt in Twilight

Harry Hickle, 18, of McKeesport, was injured last night when he fell asleep at the wheel and slammed into the rear of a trailer-tractor on Route 71 near Twilight Borough, state police reported today.

He was taken to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital with injuries to the head, face and arms. He is in "fair" condition.

Driver of the truck was listed as Stanley Dunn, of R. D. 6, Washington, Pa.

Damage was estimated at $300.

Hickle will be charged with reckless driving, police said.

Dues Protesters Hold Convention

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Dues Protest Committee, an anti-administration group within the United Steelworkers, opened a two day national conference here today.

The committee was formed after the international convention of the USW boosted dues from $3 to $5 a month in 1956.

In last February's union elections, the faction backed Donald C. Rarick, McKeesport, Pa., against USW president David J. McDonald. Rarick was defeated by a less than 2-to-1 margin.

GOP Seeking $46,000 As County War Chest

Republican leaders in Westmoreland County are seeking to raise a war chest of at least $46,000 for an all-out effort "to crack the powerful and corrupt (Democratic) machine" which it says has run the county government for 25 years.

The $46,000 would equal the amount raised and spent in Westmoreland County during last year's presidential campaign.

In a letter mailed to over 4,000 persons who contributed to the Eisenhower campaign in the county, Marcus W. Saxman, Latrobe industrialist who heads the Republican Finance Committee, said "a widely rumored split in the ranks of the Democrat political bosses" offers the GOP its best chance in years.

But he said the party will need "ample funds" to carry its appeal "to the thousands of honest citizens of both parties whose votes our candidates desperately need if they are to overcome the current two-to-one Democrat registration majority."

"This year," Saxman's letter continues, "we lack the glamour of a national campaign and the magic name of 'Ike' to lead our ticket. This means that all loyal Republicans will have to work even harder to arouse support for our important local issues. We feel that last year's record collections should be matched and hope that you can equal or better your 1956 donation."

Saxman points out that three common pleas judges, the district attorney, prothonotary, clerk of courts and coroner are to be chosen in the Nov. 5 election. All the offices are presently held by Democrats.

Enclosed with the letters is a breakdown in round figures showing how the $46,100 raised last

Local Halloween Parade Planned Thursday, Oct. 31

Monessen's annual Halloween Parade will be held on Thursday, Oct. 31.

That date was agreed on last night during a dinner meeting of the Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce at Johnson's Restaurant.

The parade will be a feature event of the "Harvest of Values" promotion scheduled for the week of October 28 by the merchants.

Once again, a window art contest will be held in connection with the Halloween activities. Edward Lhota, chairman of the Halloween committee, explained details of the parade and contest during the meeting.

Plans for an elaborate Christmas promotion were revealed by Rinard Woods, chairman of that committee.

George Cieply, Chamber manager, reported on adult distributive education and the new shoplifting law.

Parking and traffic problems were discussed by A. Edward Wilen while Joseph Friedland reported on the credit bureau.

The meeting was in charge of Norman Henderson, chairman of the Merchants Division, who reviewed the past and proposed activities of the organization.

Charity Bingo Wins Round in Ohio Courts

EAST LIVERPOOL, O. (UP) — Proponents of charity bingo appeared today to have won a round in the long battle over the game's legality in Ohio.

A jury took 48 minutes to find Verten Barnes innocent of gambling Thursday in what was considered a test case over the legality of charity bingo.

Barnes, a disabled World War II veteran, was arrested May 10 in a police raid at a Disabled American Veterans bingo game. He faced charges brought by Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper under the Ohio gambling law.

Defense attorneys contended the Ohio law permits charity bingo where personal profit is not involved.

The Ohio Constitution forbids lotteries but the Legislature has no passed laws forbidding bingo or imposing penalties.

Gov. C. William O'Neill has announced his opposition to any form of bingo. The last session of the Legislature, however, took no action on several bingo bills.

Charleroi Chamber Banquet Nov. 13

The annual banquet of the Charleroi Chamber of Commerce will be held on Nov. 13 at Twin Coaches, it was announced yesterday.

A nationally-known speaker will be secured for the occasion, according to Chamber officials. The entertainment will be furnished by Liberace.

Nashville Resistance Is Broken

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Federal intervention appeared today to have broken down resistance to racial mixing in the first grade of Nashville's schools.

Police reported the city "quieter than it has been all summer."

With racist organizer John Kasper in jail, and with his followers under the restraint of a federal injunction signed by District Judge William E. Miller Thursday, all anti-integration activity came to a halt. School officials made the optimistic announcement that school attendance increased slightly and was expected to continue moving toward normal today.

There were these developments elsewhere on the integration scene:

Students Throw Stones

Birmingham—Negro high school students riding a bus threw stones at white persons riding in passing automobiles.

Ozark, Ark. — Two Negro students left newly-integrated Ozark High School on the advice of the town marshal. Earlier a Negro had been hit with a book by a white student.

Kasper In Custody

Kasper was released from city jail Thursday after posting appeal bond, but was locked up immediately by Davidson County authorities, who have charged him with inciting riots that kept Nashville in an uproar during the first three days of school. Presentment of the county charge to the grand jury was tentatively set for late today.

There was an unconfirmed report, meanwhile, that a woman has told police she was in a car that carried dynamite to Hattie Cotton School early Tuesday.

The school, where one Negro attended school Monday, was torn by an explosion shortly after midnight Tuesday. Police would not comment on the report.

Two Industrial Plants in Area Get Sewage Orders

The state Sanitary Water Board today issued orders for treatment of sewage to two industrial firms which have plants located in East Monongahela.

Ordered to submit plans for treatment plants were Combustion Engineering, Inc., and Liggett Spring & Axle Co. The state told both firms to have their sewage systems in operation by next Sept. 1.

At the Monongahela Division of Combustion Engineering, plant manager A. R. McClain said that a sewage treatment system will go into operation sometime next month for the newly-constructed section of the plant. He said plans are now being drawn for a system to serve the old parts of the firm's Monongahela operations.

A spokesman for Liggett Spring & Axle Co. said that plans are being prepared for a sewage disposal system.

The state Sanitary Water Board has also ordered the city of Clairton to submit plans for its treatment plant by June 1.

Missile Hits Boy at School

CANONSBURG, Pa. (UP)—William Shuba, 16, a Canonsburg High School pupil, was struck in the back by a metal missile about the size of a bullet Thursday while standing at a school window.

Doctors today said the boy was in a state of shock and could not undergo an operation for removal of the object, which penetrated four or five inches.

Harry Waters, machine shop instructor, said accounts of the incident are conflicting. One report was that Shuba was standing with his back to the window, while another version had him facing the other way when the mysterious missile struck.

Others involved in the case are James Stocard (bottom, left), chairman of the Arlington school board, and J. Lindsay Almond (bottom, right), state attorney general.

Syrian Talks Give Israel the Jitters

By UNITED PRESS

A tighter welding of the Syrian and Egyptian armies gave Israel a new case of the jitters today.

Two days of talks between Syrian and Egyptian military leaders in Cairo resulted Thursday night in binding their two armies even closer under a joint command controlled by Egypt.

The leftist commander of the Syrian army, Gen. Afif Bizri, said before returning to Damascus that his army and that of Egypt were "one army, with one command and one strategy."

Arrives Home

Reports from Beirut said 12 persons were killed on the Syrian-Lebanese border Thursday in a clash between armed Syrian civilians and Lebanese gendarmes.

Even before his arrival officials had tightened security measures

Boys Take $80 From Register

Three boys were turned over to juvenile authorities yesterday after they admitted lifting $80 from a cash register in a Charleroi shoe store.

The boys took the money from the Kirby Shoe Store, 423 McKean Ave., on Wednesday. They had entered the store on the pretense of buying shoes. The register was rifled when the clerk went to the rear of the store, police reported.

The boys were picked up soon after by police. They returned the money, with the exception of $1.50 which they had spent.

Police said the boys were from the Dunlevy-Roscoe area.

Lorrin Culler, Former City Treasurer, Dies

Lorrin Culler, former city treasurer of Monessen and one of the city's earliest residents, died unexpectedly yesterday in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital. He was 75.

Mr. Culler was admitted to the hospital several days ago for observation but was not regarded as being seriously ill. However, he suffered a mild heart attack earlier in the week, and this was followed by the fatal seizure at 12:30 p.m. yesterday.

Born in Webster Dec. 4, 1881, Mr. Culler came to Monessen in 1898, the year the new town was incorporated as a borough, and took a clerical position with the former American Sheet and Tin Plate Co.

In 1912 he became the manager of the East Side Land Co., the firm which was largely responsible for the early real estate development in Monessen.

When Monessen became a third class city in 1921, Mr. Culler was

To Discuss Little Rock Incident

NEWPORT, R.I. (UP)—Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus took off from Little Rock today for a dramatic meeting here Saturday with President Eisenhower on the school integration impasse in Little Rock.

Faubus, who has defied a federal court order to admit Negroes to the Central High School in Little Rock, was accompanied by two consultants.

No information was released as to the route of the six-place Aero-Commander plane carrying the gubernatorial party or the estimated time of arrival at the summer White House.

But Faubus told reporters he understood he and his companions would spend the night "in the Newport area."

Saturday Meeting

The conference is scheduled for 9 a.m. e.d.t. Saturday.

Faubus said he would have no legal advisers with him at the talks with Eisenhower.

"The only time I need legal advice is in court, not in a conference," the governor said.

The vacation White House in Newport announced late Thursday Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. and Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams would also arrive in Newport early Saturday for the meeting.

An aide to Faubus denied a broadcast report that the governor would "throw in the sponge."

Faubus, who asked for the meeting with the President, was expected to bring advisers of his own, such as Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) who may be the peacemaker between the President and the governor.

Hays is an old friend of the President and was the chief go-between in setting up the Saturday meeting between the President and the governor.

Private Session

Brownell and Adams will arrive in sufficient time to have a private session with the President before he meets the governor. The attorney general and Adams were not expected to sit in on the entire Eisenhower - Faubus meeting because the President and the governor may want to have a few words alone.

Whether the governor holds a news conference after his meeting with the President was a matter of gubernatorial decision. His movements in this area, however, will be tracked by a large corps of reporters and photographers, many of whom were rushing in for this particular event.

The President had no formal schedule for today, but after an early morning hour in his office, he was expected to play golf. He may talk during the morning with Brownell in Washington as part of a briefing for Saturday's meeting with Faubus.

Fayette Term of Court Postponed

The entire October term of civil court in Fayette County has been postponed until next January on an order by President Judge W. Russell Carr.

Judge Carr gave no reason for his order, but it was believed the continued absence of Judge S. John Morrow prompted it. Judge Morrow is convalescing from a recent illness.

U. S. Fights for Strong UN Resolution

Turns Down Burma Move to Soften Russian Censure

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—The United States today fought an Asian attempt to water down a new draft resolution condemning the Soviet Union again for crushing the Hungarian revolt.

U.S. delegation sources categorically turned down an amendment submitted by Burma Thursday.

The amendment would substitute the word "deplore" in a section which "condemns" the Russians for intervening in Hungary and the continued defiance of the United Nations by the Moscow and Budapest governments.

Indian Ambassador Arthur S. Lall, scheduled as the main speaker of today's session, was expected to support the Burmese amendment.

Soft Terms

This would be in line with Premier Jawaharlal Nehru's recent declaration that India could not accept any condemnatory action against Russia.

But Lall's remarks were expected to be couched in soft terms. India, seeking a major loan from the United States, was in no position to be drastically critical of the West on an issue as vital as Hungary.

U.S. sources said that to substitute "deplores" for "condemns" would weaken the resolution's chief aim—get Communist cooperation with Prince Wan Wathayakon of Thailand as the assembly's special representative to seek an end to Russia's repression of Hungary.

Indiana Murder Trial Defense Begins Case

INDIANA, Pa. (UP)—The defense in the murder trial of McIntyre, Pa., coal miner Harry Gates produced three key witnesses Thursday night in an attempt to prove the defendant did not shoot his landlord and friend, Louis Turk.

Mrs. Leona Hoover, McIntyre, Indiana County, said Gates passed her house in a truck at approximately 8:30 p.m., the night of the fatal shooting last June 14. Hoover lives about a mile from the Turk home, the scene of the shooting. The time of the slaying was placed at about 8:45 p. m.

Mrs. Mary Long and Mrs. Ruth Hancock, both of Shelocta RD3, said they saw a man run from the Turk home, fire three shots and then cross in front of their car. They said they did not think the man they saw was Gates.

Earlier Thursday, Gates denied killing Turk. He described the victim as "one of the best buddies I ever had."

year was spent by the Republican County Committee.

It used $5,000 to pay off a deficit from the 1955 campaign; $10,000 was turned over to the state and national committees; $7,400 was spent for literature, advertising, sample ballots, etc.; $4,100 was used for administration purposes, mostly at county headquarters.

The biggest item was $16,300 earmarked for "political organization — registration drive, meetings, workers, cars, telephoning, committee people."

Saxman's report shows an unexpected balance of $3,300, which presumably is available for this year's campaign.

Last year's more than 4,000 contributors sent in amounts ranging from 25 cents to $1,000, according to the breakdown.

OBITUARIES

RASCHE SERVICES

Services were held today at 2 p. m. for William Rasche, 63, who died Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Steadman of Perryopolis.

Mr. Rasche was a veteran of World War I and formerly lived in Mt. Pleasant.

Interment was in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

KELLY SERVICE

A memorial service for the late J. Howard Kelly, retired Monessen banker who died Sept. 1 in New York City, will be held at the Methodist Church here Wednesday, Sept. 18 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Leroy Cass, pastor of the church, and Dr. Allan J. Howes, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Church of Uniontown, will conduct the service, to which friends of the deceased are invited.

Mrs. Eleanore Kelly Sellars and George Kelly, daughter and son of Mr. Kelly who reside in New York City, will come to Monessen for the service.

Mr. Kelly, who was 87, was one of the city's earliest residents and a prominent figure in local business and civic affairs. His death was caused by complications following a fall in Mrs. Sellars' home where he was visiting.

Koppers Plant Is Rocked by Costly Blast

BEAVER, Pa. (UP)—An explosion felt in many nearby factories and homes rocked the multi-million dollar Koppers Co. chemical plant at Kobuta, Pa., Thursday. No one was injured.

The firm said the damage figure would be more than $100,000.

The blast, which threatened the entire plant because of the existence of highly inflammable ethylbenzene near the explosion area, let loose in a tower-like heat exchanger unit.

Clair Marriner, 49, Monaca, Pa., said he was alone in the pump house in the center of the blast area when he "heard a whoosing sound and then an explosion."

"Smoke and flames came in the windows," he said. "I got out of there in a hurry."

W. K. Todd, manager, said all men working in the area were accounted for shortly after the blast shocked the small upper Ohio valley community at about 2:45 p.m. e.d.t.

Hoffa Asks to Defer Further Questioning

WASHINGTON (UP)—Teamster Vice President James R. Hoffa has filed a request which, if granted, would defer his further questioning by Senate investigators until after the election which is expected to win him his union's presidency.

His request was made known today as reports were circulated in labor circles the committee was about to recall Hoffa. Capitol sources also were saying there was a good chance Hoffa would be recalled before the union picks its new president at its Sept. 30 convention.

According to these sources Hoffa would be recalled for questioning on new evidence of his activities unearthed by rackets committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy and his aides in a recent visit to Detroit where Hoffa makes his headquarters.

Hoffa's request was made through his attorney, George S. Fitzgerald. Fitzgerald represented Hoffa last month when the committee ran up a 48-point glossary of "conflicts of interest" against the Teamster vice president and then abruptly dismissed him for the time being.

In a letter to Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), with copies to counsel Kennedy and all committee members, Fitzgerald asked that Hoffa be recalled before Sept. 18 — next Wednesday — or after Oct. 10. He said Hoffa's attendance in Miami, Fla. — site of the Teamster convention—will be "required constantly" between those dates.

Fitzgerald said Hoffa is a member of the convention constitution committee and has other important official duties at pre-convention meetings of the union's Southern and Central divisions. Hoffa also has a date to answer a wire-tapping indictment against him in New York Sept. 23, the attorney said.

Kennedy was expected in Washington today. McClellan is not scheduled to return to the capital until next Monday and is to deliver a speech in New York Sept. 18.

SUPPORT BY PERU — Peru's Victor Andres Belaunde seems worked into a fury in the UN as he supports the U. S. resolution calling for an "end to repressive measures against the Hungarian people." Many other delegates also took the rostrum on behalf of the resolution.

elected its first treasurer and served continuously in that office for four terms, a total of 16 years. He retired voluntarily in 1938.

An active Republican, he was one of the few officeholders of that party to survive when Monessen and most of Westmoreland County switched from GOP to Democratic control beginning in the Franklin D. Roosevelt landslide of 1932.

His efficiency and uniformly courteous manner made him one of the strongest vote-getters in Monessen's political history.

After leaving the city treasurer's office, Mr. Culler engaged in the real estate and insurance business for about two years and then retired.

He was a director for many years of the former Peoples National Bank & Trust Co. and remained a member of the advisory committee when the bank became the Monessen office of Mellon National Bank & Trust Co.

Mr. Culler served as president of the former Board of Trade, predecessor of the present Chamber of Commerce. He was also a past president of the Monessen Kiwanis Club.

Member of numerous Masonic orders, he was a past master of Lodge 638, Free & Accepted Masons, and was a member of Syria Temple of the Shrine.

Mr. Culler was active in the affairs of the First Presbyterian Church here, serving as a ruling elder and clerk of the session for many years. At the time of his death he held the office of clerk emeritus.

His wife, Lydia, died Jan. 10 of this year, and Mr. Culler continued to reside at the family home, 445 McKee Ave.

Surviving are his son, Dr. Ned Culler, superintendent of the public schools of Connellsville, and two grandchildren, James Lorrin and Sandra Lee.

Friends will be received at Harper's Memorial Chapel, McKee Ave. and Parkway, after 7 p.m. today. The remains will be taken to the First Presbyterian Church, McKee Ave. at Sixth St., Sunday at 1 p.m. and will lie in state until the funeral service at 2 p.m.

Private burial will be made at the Dravosburg Cemetery Monday at 10 a.m.

Queen Elizabeth on Reducing Schedule

LONDON (UP) —Queen Elizabeth is on a reducing schedule with the aim of losing 10 pounds before she visits the United States and Canada next month.

The Queen returned Thursday from a month's vacation at Balmoral in the Scottish Highlands to be fitted for a new wardrobe for the royal visit with Prince Philip.

Intimates reveal that Elizabeth has been reducing with the aid of special "slimming pills" prescribed by a famous London physician.

The Queen is known to appreciate that the camera can unkindly exaggerate even a little extra weight, and she will face an unprecedented camera and television barrage during her forthcoming tour.

Favors Blue Clothes

Her clothes, too, will be particularly designed by Norman Hartnell and Hardy Amies to look good on TV. Fortunately, blue is an excellent television shade and is also the Queen's favorite, suiting her blue eyes and golden-brown hair.

Hartnell and Amies will go to Buckingham Palace for fittings and at the same time the Queen will make a final selection of the hats, shoes, bags and other accessories she will take with her.

Then, during the next few days, Miss Margaret Macdonald, the Queen's maid, will start the mammoth job of packing.

It is not simply a job of folding clothes into cases. Miss Macdonald, a smart little Scotswoman in her mid-forties, has to organize a clothing schedule drawn up like a military organization.

Filing System Used

As boxes and packages arrive at the palace, each ensemble is collected, then the costume is described on a typewritten sheet and given a number. Each of the 90 or so trunks, cases, bags and special boxes has corresponding code numbers.

Thus, if the weather changes suddenly and the Queen needs to change her ensemble at the last minute, a glance at the schedule sheet shows exactly where the outfit can be found. It is Miss Macdonald's boast she can provide any pair of shoes in three minutes. The Queen herself is as quick at split - second dressing as any theater star.

During the next few days the "coffins" will be taken down from the attic storerooms and cleaned and polished. These are the enormously deep and long boxes specially made to carry state gowns without crushing the elaborate skirts. The nickname "coffins" was given them long ago by the palace staff.

A completely black outfit will be among the wardrobe. This is in case anyone connected with the court should die while she is abroad and require her to appear in mourning.

Taking Coronation Gown

There also will be several dozen pairs of white and pastel suede and kid gloves. When the Queen has a lot of handshaking to do, as she usually does, she often uses two or three pairs in one day as they quickly become so soiled that they have to be thrown away.

It is expected the Queen will take her coronation gown with her to wear when she opens the Canadian Parliament. She wore it both in Australia and New Zealand to open Parliament three years ago. It is white satin, exquisitely hand-embroidered with pearls and precious stones in flowers symbolizing the lands of the Commonwealth, including the maple leaf.

The gown has short sleeves, a flaring skirt with a slight train and the neckline is cut square over the shoulders. With it the Queen wears a diamond tiara and the blue sash of the Order of the Garter. It is carefully preserved in the Queen's dressing room at Buckingham Palace and travels in a specially - made "coffin" some seven feet long which is guarded by Scotland Yard detectives.

both internally and along the borders with Syria and Israel.

In Damascus, a Syrian military spokesman charged that Israeli troops occupied the village of Altawafik in the demilitarized frontier zone between Israel and Syria Thursday.

In Washington, U.S. officials said today the United States is not willing now to give Israel new iron-clad guarantees against Arab aggression.

Makes Protest

"They said all Middle Eastern nations and Russia already understand what action the United States would take under the Eisenhower Doctrine and previous U. S. policy statements.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban personally protested Thursday to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles against American and Russian arms being shipped to Israel's Arab neighbors.

Eban said Israel did not expect hostilities "tomorrow" but he termed the rearmament of Arab states a "somber" development.

Boyer Critical Of Reports in Merger Breakdown

HARRISBURG (UP) — Harry Boyer, president of the Pennsylvania CIO Council, has criticized the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor leadership for airing the collapse of union merger proceedings.

Boyer said he believed that "merger negotiations should be conducted between the parties and not through the press."

AFL President Joseph A. McDonough was quoted in published reports as blaming a breakdown in negotiations on an attempt by the CIO to "submerge" the AFL in the state consolidation under negotiation since Dec. 20, 1955. McDonough also was quoted as saying the CIO was determined to gain control of the proposed single union formed from the merger.

Boyer said the merger negotiations or "current areas of disagreements" should remain within the merger committees, adding that his union was ready to begin consolidation talks again.

Trucker Suffers Fatal Attack

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — George W. Sturrier, 50, Pittsburgh, was found dead Thursday in the cab of his truck parked at the rear of a service station on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Police said he had succumbed to an acute coronary thrombosis.

Sturrier had been reported missing Wednesday night when he failed to return from a service call for the Pittsburgh Auto Spring Co.

A company follow - up driver found Sturrier's body slumped at the wheel of his truck near the New Stanton interchange.

Student Pastor

Robert Carson Jr., of Greensburg, who gave up his law practice two months ago for a three-year course at Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh, has been named student pastor of Avonmore Presbyterian Church.

Fayette Thugs Active

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—Five thugs terrorized two households in Fayette County within the space of an hour Thursday night.

They stole a shotgun, rifle and pistol from a Scottdale home after terrorizing a 69-year-old woman and a short time later escaped with $80 after binding an elderly couple near Vanderbilt.

The crime spree began at 9:20 p.m. when three of the thugs entered the home of Ralph Mitts, RD 1 Scottdale.

They found Mrs. Goldie Miller, 69, in an upstairs bedroom and brought her downstairs while they ransacked the house. State police said the thugs were so distracted at finding the weapons that Mrs. Miller managed to sneak outside and escape to the home of a neighbor.

Officers said two accomplices of the intruders were spotted waiting outside the Mitts home.

At 10:15 p.m., Mr. and Mrs. William Galley were watching a cops and robbers television program in their Vanderbilt home when the five real-life robbers entered.

Warning the 65-year-old man and his wife not to try anything, the gunmen tied the couple to chairs and began looting the home.

The couple told police the bandits took $80 in cash and their 1955 automobile. The couple was not injured.

Galley managed to move his chair around and free his wife's hands after the gunmen left. She united him and they notified police.

ABOUT the VALLEY

(By The Independent News Staff)

Costly Project

To promote their cause, the Citizens Committee for Fluoridation recently set up a window display in a Monessen bank.

The display was secured from a Chicago firm with the understanding that return postage would be paid by the city group. Since the cost of shipment here was only $16, no one was perturbed.

This week a hurry-up telephone call was received from Chicago, requesting that the display be mailed immediately to a town in Texas.

As a courtesy to the fluoridation committee, the bank manager agreed to make the mailing arrangements. He now admits he had no idea the postage charge would amount to a whopping $79!

Now he's wondering just who's going to reimburse him.

Spelling Change

A new vogue in spelling has hit the district theatres, it seems.

Perhaps it has something to do with getting all of the film title on the short marquees.

Anyway, a district theatre early this week must not have had room for "Written on the Wind."

It came out: "Ritten on the Wind."

Pious Neighborhood

When the nuns at St. Sebastian R. C. Church move into their newly-acquired convent on Broad Ave. in Belle Vernon, they should have no trouble with their new neighbors.

On one side of the convent is the Presbyterian manse; on the other side the residence of a Jewish Rabbi.

'Smart' Students

At Monessen High School this week, a wise-cracking student explained to the teacher why a classmate was absent.

"He has the lazyatic flu," informed the lad.

All-around Man

Despite the summer-long drought, the sod at the Bellmar High sports stadium is a brilliant green these days.

Football coach Bap Manzini keeps it that way by watering the grass daily.

In turn, the Bellmarette School Board keeps Manzini's pay envelope green by giving him $200 for his grounds-keeping duties.

Tax Crackdown

The U. S. Treasury Department is constantly checking on income tax evaders.

This week a prominent Monessen man received his final notice before seizure in a special delivery letter from the treasury men.

"Levy will be made upon your wages or other sources of income, or property belonging to you will be seized and sold," warned the letter.

His delinquent tax was listed as $14, the result of an error in computing his wage deductions last year.

"I wonder if this puts me in Bill Lias' class," he asked.

Coach's Moans

Charles Throop, superintendent at Pittsburgh Steel's coke plant here, read in The Daily Independent sports section this past week that his son Terry was a doubtful football starter for Monessen High in the opener tomorrow because of an injury.

Concerned over the report, the elder Throop questioned his apparently healthy son to determine if the boy was concealing a hurt.

It turned out that Terry had a stubbed finger. Coach Armand Niccolai, fretting on the eve of another season, had "worried" the injury into the newspaper.

Terry, trim and fit, promised his dad he'd be in the starting lineup, stubbed finger and all.

Bridge Tourney Results Listed

Twelve tables were in play at last night's meeting of the Magic City Bridge Club held at the Charleroi Elks.

North-south prizes were won by Dr. William E. Trezise, Fayette City and Mrs. J. H Carazola, Canonsburg, first. Second place winners were Mrs. Walter Lofink and Rex Hammerle, both of Pittsburgh.

East-west winners were Mrs. Martha Breese, Washington and Mrs. Inez Gossard, Charleroi, first. The second place winners were Dr. Harry Potts and Harry O. Shockey, both of Uniontown.

Details of Sale of Scout Camp Picco Is Explained by Trustees

The sale of Camp Picco, which has stirred a quiet controversy among district Boy Scout leaders, was explained in detail today by the two trustees involved in the transaction.

The trustees — Thomas Malpass, Belle Vernon, and George Saylor, Pittsburgh — both agreed that "the public is entitled to know all details of the sale."

For the past month, officials of the Westmoreland-Fayette Boy Scout Council have been hesitant to discuss the sale of the 13 acre tract near Gillespie.

But the trustees provided a complete story for the Daily Independent: Both of them pointed out that they were obliged under terms of the deed to sell the property when so requested.

"The property, consisting of 13.252 acres, was sold to Robert Rae, 516 Fayette Rd., Belle Vernon, for $2625," Malpass said. "The money from the sale, as well as $909.11 in a Camp Picco improvement fund, has been turned over as an endowment to the Westmoreland-Fayette Boy Scout Council."

Only Convey Title

The two trustees, who were interviewed separately by The Daily Independent, explained the Camp Picco situation as follows:

The property was originally sold for $1 by the Pittsburgh Coal Co. in 1948 under a trustee arrangement for the use of scout troops in District 3. There were three trustees, Malpass, Saylor and the late Michael Kiseda.

The deed stated clearly that the only duty of the trustees was to hold or convey title to the property. In effect, Camp Picco was the possession of the Westmoreland-Fayette Council.

Earlier this year, the Council Camping Committee and the Camp Development Committee voted unanimously to sell Camp Picco.

It was their thinking that the property should be sold because "the many problems of supervision, maintenance, liability and undesirable conditions brought about by persons not authorized to use the property, together with the fact that it is against the long-standing policy of the Council to accept responsibility for local properties."

The council then directed the two remaining trustees to sell the property as soon as possible for the best price possible. Legally, the trustees were bound to follow the Council's order.

Malpass said he immediately contacted Glenn Anderson, a Belle Vernon real estate man, and asked him to see if there were any interested buyers. Three men expressed interest at once, according to Malpass.

Realized $2500

One of them, Rae, offered $2625, which Malpass said he felt was more than would be received from a public sale. He forwarded the information to Council headquarters and was instructed to accept the offer.

After real estate fees and taxes, the Boy Scout Council netted $2500 from the transaction, Malpass said.

Both Malpass and Saylor described the purchase price as "fair" pointing out that most of the 13 acres are not suitable for building purposes.

However Saylor said he felt district scout leaders "definitely should have been consulted before the sale was ordered."

Malpass did not criticize the Council action, explaining that most district scout leaders felt Camp Picco should either be improved or sold.

"I find most of them are perfectly satisfied when details and reasons for the transaction are explained," he said.

Malpass also pointed out that new Route 31 will make Camp Conestoga easily accessible to district scouts.

"Many improvements are planned there in the near future," he said. "A full time camp ranger will be hired for year-around duty to supervise the excellent camping facilities."

Activities for Men, Babies Needed at Church

LIGONIER, Pa. (UP)—The president of the Pennsylvania Sabbath School Assn. says the "most neglected phases of Sunday school work are activities for men and babies."

Clyde W. Meadows told the closing session of the Westmoreland County Sunday School Assn. Thursday that a survey has shown a man brings four other persons to church services with him.

Babies, he pointed out, come with their parents.

Elected officers of the county association at the two-day session were: R. Harold Boyd, Greensburg, president; Caire C. Stewart, Vandergrift, 1st vice-president; Charles E. Marsh, Greensburg, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Ruth A. Yeates, Greensburg, secretary; Edgar A. Underwood, Seward, treasurer, and Miss Irene Blakeney, Greensburg, statistical secretary.

The Device Failed

THE SIGNS are encouraging that Governor Faubus of Arkansas is looking for a graceful way to remove his ill-considered obstruction of racial integration at the Central High School at Little Rock.

At least this is a logical explanation of his request to confer personally with President Eisenhower at Newport. And it would also account for the Governor's rather pointed expressions of respect for court orders.

The whole country sincerely hopes these signs are accurate. And the public no doubt approves President Eisenhower's willingness to counsel with Governor Faubus and provide every opportunity for him to correct his grave mistake with as little embarrassment as possible.

While it has been heart-rending to see soldiers in the uniforms of the United States Army barring Negro children from entering a public school and while this has gravely damaged the nation in the eyes of millions of people throughout the world, the showdown at Little Rock may yet be made to serve a constructive purpose.

The die-hard segregationists of the deep South are a dwindling but still rabid minority in the nation. And the actions of Governor Faubus, it has been made quite clear, represented a not-too-clever device to nullify the famous decision of the Supreme Court.

The device has failed and failed abjectly. And all that is needed to complete the failure is for Governor Faubus to withdraw the National Guard and permit the Negro children to attend Central High School. If he does this in an atmosphere of cooperation with the federal district court, so much the better.

The incident has had its humiliating aspects so far as the American people are concerned, and there would be no point in trying to pretend that it hasn't. But the important thing, after all, is to demonstrate that the law of the land must be obeyed. And we hope the signs are right that this demonstration is about to be made.

Worth Working for

THE WILDCAT strike which occurred at the Pittsburgh Steel Co. plant in Monessen recently ended with relatively minor loss to the company and to the affected employes. At least the losses were minor by comparison with those which would have resulted from a complete shutdown had the strike continued a few days longer.

We can well believe the responsible leaders of the United Steelworkers union when they say that they regret such occurrences as much as the management and do their best to avoid them. They would not be responsible leaders if they didn't.

But even those of us who are on the outside looking in but who have a legitimate interest in orderly and cooperative labor-management relations in the city's largest industrial plant can see that something more needs to be done to prevent these irresponsible actions.

Just what is needed is hardly for us to say. Whether the union's own disciplinary control over its members is inadequate; whether the management is not dealing promptly enough with justifiable complaints; whether too many employes fail to appreciate that they are working for the company and not for the union; whether something needs to be done to build greater confidence between employes and management — these may or may not suggest plausible avenues of approach.

At any rate, we would like to feel that there is a sufficient core of goodwill and common sense in Monessen's industrial families around which a more wholesome relationship than that exemplified by wildcat strikes could be developed. It seems to us that some conscientious efforts directed to that end might be well worthwhile.

Misguided Zeal

THE EMOTIONS being aroused by the racial question in the United States are producing some weird responses. Item: the New York City board of education has quietly dropped Mark Twain's classic "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" from the approved lists for the city's elementary and junior high schools.

The only explanation so far adduced is that the book contains the word "nigger" and that the word "Negro" is not capitalized. These are supposed to be offensive to members of the Negro race.

We can't know, of course, whether Mark Twain, if he were writing about Huck Finn today, would use "nigger" or whether he would object to capitalizing "Negro". He was a very agreeable and kindly man with no hate in his heart, and we can imagine that he would have gone to some lengths to avoid giving offense to anyone.

But no child is going to have a proper knowledge of American literature who doesn't read "Huckleberry Finn". And it strikes us as a piece of misguided zeal on the part of the New York board of education that it should drop so wonderful a story from its reading lists for so flimsy a reason.

Merry-Go-Round—

Greeks Don't Like John Foster Dulles

(Editor's note: Drew Pearson is now reporting from the vitally important Near East.)

By DREW PEARSON

ATHENS, Greece — The Greeks have a word for John Foster Dulles. It is "anekdiegetos" and it's difficult to translate. It means a short story that can't be told in a short story, which is another way of saying they don't understand Mr. Dulles, can't explain Mr. Dulles, and don't like Mr. Dulles.

Mr. Pearson

Americans, watching the Greek scene, put it another way — namely, that every time the United States has piled up good will with Greece, Mr. Dulles knocks it over with a single statement.

Two years ago this month Secretary Dulles did this by sending identic notes to Greece and Turkey after the Turks had broken open Greek stores in Turkey, ruined several million dollars worth of produce, desecrated Greek churches, scalped a Greek priest and strewn the bones of Greek graves over the landscape. Completely failing to differentiate between the agressor and the aggrieved, Mr. Dulles sent equal notes of admonition to both Greece and Turkey. He had much better said absolutely nothing.

The result was a storm of Greek indignation plus the stoning of the American consulate in Salonika.

Another Faux Pas

This September, almost on the anniversary of Mr. Dulle's former booboo, someone in his State Department dropped another off-the-cuff remark that left the sensitive Greek people seething.

It was stated at the State Department that neither President Eisenhower nor Secretary Dulles would receive the famed Cypriot patriot, Archbishop Makarios, when he came to the United States.

Cyprus is a Mediterranean island which may not mean much to the average American, but in Greece this was like yelling "Down with the Pope" on the steps of Cardinal Spellman's archdiocese in Fifth Ave. Archbishop Makarios hadn't asked to see Dulles or Eisenhower, had not yet left for the USA, might not even have gone to Washington. Yet the State Department handed him a gratuitous slap-in-advance anyway.

On top of this, and only a few days later, the Voice of America congratulated the Turks on their victory day celebration of the 1922 war with Greece. True, the Voice of America has always done this, just as the American ambassador in Greece attends the anniversary of the battle when the Greeks pushed the Turks out of Athens.

But coming right after the Makarios snub, the combined booboos offset several hundred million dollars worth of foreign aid poured into Greece. A kind word, especially in Greece, will sometimes work more miracles than dollars anyway. In this case the unkind word undid the work of dollars.

Here are samples of how Greek newspapers, usually friendly to the United States, fumed against the State Department:

Eleftheria: "Americans sometimes can be unbearably rude — What did American leaders do after making their decision (not to receive Makarios)? Did they wait for the Archbishop to go there and ask for an audience? No. They called a press conference and told the press to convey to the four corners of the world that neither the White House nor the State Department will receive Makarios. That is where rudeness lies."

American People vs. Dulles

Ethnos: "Yesterday's announcement of the United States State Department was surprising, unjustified and unusual. This announcement does not create to the Greek people simply a feeling of bitterness, but also a feeling of indignation. It insults the self-respect of Greece. . . Makarios will go to the United States because there live there others except those in the American government. There live the American people who in their majority, are pure, honest and fair."

Kathimerini — "Our great American allies, these newly appointed leaders of the world, should by now learn to behave. When will they learn that it is ridiculous to fight with various expensive means of propaganda, with pamphlets and bulletins, with offices and services, and then throw them all, with one phrase, in the wastebasket with open and grotesque rudeness; with a phrase unworthy of a civilized nation which the Kremlin would never have thought of uttering?"

Eleftheria — "There is a sort of spontaneity in every rude or noble American action. . .He respects the proud and the daring, feels contempt for the servile and the coward. From the present leaders of Greece, Americans had samples of crawling servility and this is the reason they acted with such spontaneous rudeness."

From Washington—

Gov. Faubus and the Courts

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

There is a tell-tale sentence in Gov. Orval E. Faubus' 5,000-word television interview which lets the cat out of the bag. It goes to the heart of the convention that the use of the National Guard preventing nine Negro students from registering at the Little Rock Central High School was necessary to preserve the peace.

Mr. Drummond

It is on the validity of this claim that the Governor's action, in large part, stands or falls.

This is why the correspondents interviewing Mr. Faubus came at this point from all directions. The Governor argued that "over-all circumstances" required the troops at the school to keep public order, but whenever the reporters got specific and asked for proof, he refused to offer any documentation.

Little Rock Different:

It is reasonable to wonder whether there is provable evidence that there was a threat to public order since Arkansas has already peacefully carried out more school integration than other school districts in the state?

Then came this question from William Hines, an out-of-state reporter from "The Washington Star."

The question — "In connection with these overt incidents that you are talking about, a great many of us newspaper men have been trying for the best part of a week to find out something specific about them. Where are these caravans that you learned about that the Sheriff of Belasky didn't know anything about or that the Chief of Police of Little Rock didn't know anything about?"

Which produced from Governor Faubus what seems to me a revealing, giveaway reply.

The answer — "Well, let me remind you of something which perhaps you haven't yet discovered — that Arkansas people don't talk to strangers" suggests that there was no direct reply which Mr. Faubus could give.

Certainly this exchange cannot fail to leave many with the feeling that for the Governor to give an irrelevant answer means that there was no relevant answer, that for the Governor to give a meaningless answer means there was no meaningful answer to be given.

All of this gives added point to the finding of Federal Judge Ronald N. Davies that "there has been no indication from sources available that there would be violence" and that the use of troops preventing a court order from being carried out was a "pretext."

Respects Law

Contrary to some reactions, I thought that there was quite a bit in Mr. Faubus' television press conference which showed that he was prepared to be responsive to the authority of the courts after he has exhausted what he believes to be his rights as Governor.

At the very beginning, to the question as to whether he disputes the authority of a federal court to order integration in the public schools of Little Rock, he said: "I do not."

At the very end, to a question about possible conflicts between federal law and state law, he said: ". . .the proper way to resolve them is by litigation in the courts and then we in Arkansas will abide by the law."

That is what Judge Davies is in process of doing, and Governor Faubus' statement that at the end of litigation he will "abide," is welcome.

It's a Fact—

The king of Nepal, whose realm lies high in the Himalayas between India and Tibet, is the world's only Hindu monarch. His throne is as big as a four-poster bed. Over it looms the golden hood of a nine-headed cobra, symbolizing the Hindu god, Vishnu the Preserver. The Nepalese look on their ruler as an incarnation of Vishnu.

GOP Bigwigs Snub New Vermont Mayor

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—Managing Editor Tom McCormick of the Burlington (Vt.) Daily News reports that from his watch tower, too, the Republican Party appears to be disorganized all the way to the top.

McCormick offers in support the experience in Washington of C. Douglas Cairns, who last March became the first Republican in 20 years to be elected mayor of Burlington. Vermont is safe Republican territory in other respects. So was neighbor Maine until recent years when it began electing a Democratic governor.

Mr. Wilson

Good politicians know there is no really safe constituency. They also know that in politics it is the little things that really count. As, for example, the late Charles Evans Hughes' campaign swing snub of California's Gov. Hiram W. Johnson. Hughes thereby lost California and the 1956 presidential election by, you might say, a handshake. For the information of those who came in very late, the winner was Democrat Woodrow Wilson.

Here's Writer's Story

Harry Holden can take it from here. McCormick calls Holden the dean of Vermont newsmen, an old-time political writer. In the Sept. 8 Burlington Sunday News, Holden reported:

"Some local observers agree with writers of national repute that the Republican Party organization is disorganized clear to the top.

"Some of these point to the deal that Burlington's Mayor C. Douglas Cairns got on his recent trip to Washington. Cairns, they say, went to Washington well-deserving a conquering hero reception, politically speaking.

"He had emerged from the business world and stepped into politics to defeat the undefeated — to carry the state's biggest city for the Republicans for the first time in 20 years.

"Mayor Cairns might well have been considered worthy of a reward—this is, by a well-organized political machine."

No Welcome For Winner

There was no welcome for Cairns when he arrived in Washington, Holden related, such as, for example, top Democrats gave William Proxmire when he appeared here fresh from winning a Wisconsin U. S. Senate seat.

Cairns came to Washington to request that the site in Burlington of a proposed new federal building be made available to the city for free parking. Congress had not appropriated funds for the new building. Some unoccupied buildings on part of the site would have had to be razed for parking purposes.

Here's Holden again:

"When the red tape had been cut, the answer was No!

"The unkindest cut of all was the crop conservation practiced by the government on some of the condemned lots—that is, the carefully nurtured rag weed."

Holden wrote that Burlington Republicans contrasted their mayor's experience with Washington's treatment of Vermont Republicans in what he called "the good old days."

"Now," Holden wrote as the last paragraph of his story, "the prize for a winning Republican is a mess of rag weed."

Behind The News—

U. S. Receives Setback In Syrian Situation

By CHARLES M. McCANN

The United States appears to have suffered a diplomatic setback in the Syrian situation.

There was great excitement in Washington last week over the rise of pro-Communist Syrian elements to power.

Mr. McCann

Special envoy Loy M. Henderson, returning from an emergency visit to the Middle East, reported that Syria's neighbors were "deeply concerned" over the threat of Communist infiltration.

President Eisenhower interrupted his vacation to fly to Washington to confer with Henderson and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The President, it was announced, had pledged to use whatever powers might be necessary to protect pro - Western Arab governments from overthrow by the Syrian leftists.

Weapons For Jordan

There was talk that it might be necessary to invoke the so-called Eisenhower Doctrine on the Middle East.

It was announced that weapons would be flown to Syria's pro-Western neighbor Jordan.

There was talk the United States Mediterranean fleet was moving into Middle Eastern waters.

From all appearances, the pro-Western Arab neighbors failed to get excited over the danger to them.

But the Syrian and Soviet Russian governments did get excited, if largely for propaganda purposes, and talked about the threat of American imperialist aggression.

Now Dulles has radically changed the official United States attitude toward the Syrian situation.

Sees No Threat

Dulles said at a press conference Tuesday that he thought the situation "probably will work out." He said he foresaw no threat of Communist aggression, which if it happened to occur, could not be dealt with by the "states involved."

It developed the Mediterranean fleet had not made any emergency move into Middle Eastern waters.

The airlift to Jordan, it was emphasized, was merely to speed up delivery of weapons previously promised.

As to talk about invocation of the Eisenhower Doctrine, Dulles pointed out the frequenly - forgotten fact that it has distinct limitations.

First Eisenhower would have to find that a Middle Eastern country was dominated by international Communism. Secondly, the country in question would have to commit an act of aggression against another country. Thirdly, the country attacked would have to ask the United States for aid.

At the White House—

Ike's Golf Game 'off'

By MERRIMAN SMITH

NEWPORT, R.I. (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

President Eisenhower has been playing something less than satisfying golf since he started his vacation at this seaside resort.

He has been shooting two and three strokes over par on an embarrassing number of holes at the Newport Country Club.

And as though his own efforts were not enough, the Chief Executive underwent a shaking experience the other day. A man playing in front of him shot a hole-in-one.

The lucky golfer was Gus Pagel, an electrical designer who plays the country club on weekends. Pagel hit a five iron shot on the 143-yard 13th hole.

Pagel, of course, was delighted to the point of jabbering to every person within range of his voice.

The President made the club house turn—and encountered Pagel who told him in painstaking detail about his wonderful shot.

"I've only seen two of those," the President said seriously.

Communications for the large press corps camping on Eisenhower's steps here at the Newport Navy Base are handled, for the most part, by Carroll S. Linkins of Western Union. Linkins has been around coverage of presidential trips since the Grant administration, although he vows that he did not start "covering" a President until the Hoover era.

"Link" brought with him to Newport a special crew of teletype operators who worked on a number of presidential visits at Gettysburg, Pa. These operators who handle the copy for the three major press associations are Joseph L. Simmers, Harrisburg, Pa.; Cyril P. Hamm, York, Pa., and Richard J. Sullivan, Hanover, Pa.

Secret Service agents ranged around the vacation White House got the idea the other day that a hidden enemy was throwing rocks at them.

Turned out to be sea gulls dropping clams.

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Initial Forecast of '57 Season

Well, it's here — the 1957 football season, that is, and with it comes the first forecasting of the year. Out comes the crystal ball and into it gazes Mr. Nessenom, who will assist Phil Fumble, our "guesspert" this season . . . Nessenom was imported from India where he was a professional Fakir . . . Here's the way they see the opening games . . . (winners in caps) MONESSEN at Windber; Oliver at CHARLEROI; North Catholic at DONORA; Brownsville at MUNHALL; Snowden at MONONGAHELA; BELLMAR at Perryopolis; JOHNSTOWN at Redstone; Rostraver at ELLSWORTH; ELIZABETH-FORWARD at Bethlehem Joint; German at UNIONTOWN; WEST NEWTON at Bentleyville; WASHINGTON at Canonsburg; Peabody at CLAIRTON; Sewickley Township at GREENSBURG; East Huntingdon at SOUTH HUNTINGDON. There they are, let the chips fall where they may, Says Phil.

Alex Barantovich, Brownsville High grid coach, has been named president of the Fayette County Coaches Association, succeeding Lou Rozzi of German Township . . . Other officers named were Harry Brownfield, Point Marion, vice-president; Mickey Finn, Connellsville, secretary-treasurer; W. L. Lewis, Connellsville, parliamentarian and Gus Carderelli, Redstone, sergeant-at-arms . . . Only 19 candidates, in contrast to large turnouts elsewhere, reported for the Donora Junior High football team this year . . . The drop is blamed on two things, the new junior high at Carroll Township and the start of ninth grade classes for the new Catholic high school at various parochial grade schools . . . The sponsoring Mon Valley Checker Club, for the tournament held here in July, officially thanked the City for the wonderful treatment given the tourney participants and officials, in a letter to Council this week.

No Burned Out Turf for Bellmar

Bellmar High School's playing turf at the high school athletic field is in the finest shape of any we've seen this season. While gridirons are burned out from the intense heat elsewhere in the valley, the Hurricanes' field is a thick, beautiful "carpet" of green . . . We understand Coach Bap Manzini had the grass project as "his baby" during the summer months . . . The "baby" is certainly healthy so the care must have been excellent . . . Another Popovich gridder is in the making here as Johnny, Jr., son of the former 'Hound ace, now Coach at Waynesburg College, shows his speedy halfback form for the Frank-Lin team . . . Dad helps "Mooney" Kachmarik coach the team.

Speaking of Midget Football, the sport is now attracting attention all over the valley as fans from Fayette City, Belle Vernon, Fairhope, and surrounding areas were spotted at the opener here Tuesday night . . . Local boxers Buck Henry (current), Eddie Nasal (former) witnessed their first Midget tilt Tuesday and came away very impressed, especially with Eric Crabtree of the Jefferson team . . . His father Gene formerly played for the Greyhounds. He is now the high school custodian here . . . Former Pitt star Bill Schmitt, is now playing for the First Airborne Corps team at Fort Bragg, N. C., champions of the Post.

To Film Two Leopard Contests

The Rostraver School Board has approved a request by football coach Wade Bender that two home games be filmed this season. If the movie project proves satisfactory, the board may okay filming of all home games . . . The Monessen Athletic Movie Club will again record the Monessen games and are currently conducting their fund drive . . . Help support this worthy organization . . . Don Zubic, All-Big Six tackle here in 1951, is home for a few days' furlough from Uncle Sam's Army and will be able to see the Greyhounds in two games. He has ten more months to serve with the armed forces and then he can start seeing the full schedule of MHS tilts.

Serious Golf Killing Doc's Love of Game

By OSCAR FRALEY

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UP) — If you have a toothache and you live in Pomona, Calif., be a patient patient just a bit longer.

Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor is about through with the golfing wars and he'll be home soon—to stay.

Taylor, a 40-year-old molar mender, is the old war-horse of the four survivors who meet today in the semifinals of the U. S. Amateur golf championship. The other three are comparative kids.

And Dr. Bud has just about "had it."

Tournament golf, he insisted as he went wearily out for a 36-hole bout with 23-year-old Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., is just too much work.

"I've been playing serious golf for about five years because I wanted to play in the Masters, the Open, the Amateur and make the Walker Cup team," he explained. "I've done all those things and, in the process, almost lost my love for golf and neglected my dental practice."

Too Much Work

"This kind of golf," he added, "requires constant practice. It's just too much work and I don't intend to keep at it. From now on, my golf is strictly for laughs."

Taylor is on the edge of exhaustion because of the nervous and physical energy consumed by six rounds in four days to reach the semifinals. So after this one the 145-pound former Southern California shortstop is going back to casual golf and give himself time for the duck and pheasant hunting and the skeet shooting he has ignored "too long."

But the slender Californian, who as a war-time colonel was President Eisenhower's dentist in England, is going to give it the big try today. Rudolph, his opponent, is an Army private who would just love to polish off the "rusty brass."

But Doc isn't worried about spotting him 17 years and longer drives.

You drive for show but you putt for dough," Taylor grins.

Putting Sharp

He has proved this repeatedly in his early matches, being a mere seven under par in his six victories, and primarily because of his putting. Taylor has played with a great many of his pro friends and in two U.S. Opens was unperturbed in matching shots with such as Tommy Bolt, Porky Oliver, Chick Harbert and Dave Douglas.

In the last round of the Masters this year only two players broke 70 on the final round: winner Doug Ford with a 66 and Taylor with a 69.

So, while bone-tired, his hopes are high that he will be able to beat Rudolph and then in the finals take on the winner of the match between 25-year-old Hillman Robbins of Memphis and 21-year-old Rex Baxter of Amarillo. After that, he and his wife, Shirley, will head for home to stay.

"She's been patient," Taylor laughed, "and so have my patients. We're all aching for me to get home."

Ellsworth Lep Foe Tomorrow

Wade Bender, head football coach at Rostraver High School said his Leopards have their fingers crossed for the opening test with Rostraver at Ellsworth tomorrow night.

"We've got a very green team and I'm not referring to the team colors (green and white)," said Bender today. "Ellsworth, on the other hand has at least four letterman back and some other players who have seen considerable action and they also have size, another asset we lack," he added.

Bender named his starting lineup for the clash tomorrow night as follows: Charles Ahlborn and Ralph Snyder at the ends, Don Corbett and Paul Kirschner at the tackles, Ronald Peto and Allen Seich at the guards and John Bankston at center. Bob Keith or Jack Pierce will be at quarterback to handle a backfield of Gus Allen and Ronald Phelps at the halfback posts with Clyde Kuhn at fullback. Walter Karbowsky and Tom Strong will be in at defensive tackles with Steve Matava also seeing defensive action or possibly switching with Peto and Siech at an offensive guard position.

The Leopards will take the field tomorrow night in new white uniforms of white jerseys with "Georgia-Tech-style shoulder stripes", green pants with a white side stripe and green and white helmets. Bender hopes the playing performance of the Leps will match their appearance sartorically.

Ellsworth under new coach Paul Lapcevic, who replaces resigned Steve Metro, now coaching at Bloomsburg High, will field a rather heavy team up front of about 175 pound average but a speedy backfield and if some injured players come around will have six lettermen in the starting lineup.

"The Tigers are tough but we'll be in there fighting," added Bender.

Open Hearth Bowling Results Announced

Pacing the scorers were Norbert Cutter 165-472; John Fedarko 140-413; Roy Gates 156-409; Bob Steffey 163-419; Ed Anderson 170-443; Mike Druash 151-421.

Valley Grid Teams to Open Season Tonight

All Big Five teams but Monessen open their 1957 grid seasons tonight as "King Football" takes over for a "three month run."

Across the river Charleroi will host Oliver where even the Cougars are hoping last year's 75-0 walloping won't repeat itself.

Brownsville is at Munhall, Monongahela hosts Snowden in a traditional opener and North Catholic is at Donora in what should be a terrific game to round out the card involving Big Five entrants.

Redstone, members of the conference last season but not included in the alignment this year, hosts Johnstown in what should be a rugged test.

Elsewhere in the district South Huntingdon hosts East Huntingdon.

Other district teams, South Huntingdon and West Newton see action tomorrow as does Rostraver, appearing at Ellsworth. Bellmar travels to Perry tonight.

Hound Squad Set

Meanwhile Coach Armand Niccolai of the Greyhounds has his squad set for the Windber invasion tomorrow night following a session under the lights here last night.

He is sticking with a lineup of Paul Tobacco, and probably George Guibourdanche at ends with Dennis O'Toole and Steve Burns still in the picture here. James Aldrich and Vince Pascarella will probably be the tackles, Bob Pauline and Terry Throop the guards, with Tom Churan at center.

The backfield will show Dan Barton at quarter, Ken Bronson and Joe Karbowsky at the halves and Carl Rattay at fullback.

Tomorrow at 1 o'clock in the afternoon the entire 'Hound squad will leave by bus for Windber with the band following shortly thereafter, also by bus. The players will dine somewhere along and arrive in Windber early enough to rest for the game.

MHS - Windber Ducat Sale 6 - 8 Tonight

Monessen High School Faculty Manager of Athletics Armand Mori announced today that he would be at the high school gym office tonight from 6 until 8 o'clock instead of 7 to 9, for the sale of Monessen-Windber tickets, so as not to interfere with local fans attending valley grid games.

Anyone wishing to contact Mori about tickets should call MU 4-3355, a new number.

Windber High Not WPIAL Member

Here's an argument settler—Windber, Monessen's foe tomorrow night is not a member of the WPIAL. The Ramblers, as the Windber team is known, have applied for membership several times but have been refused. It is believed the distance to Windber is the reason for the WPIAL refusing admission to the 'Hound foe of tomorrow night.

Shutouts Registered In BF Bowling Loop

Shutouts were registered by Mechanical and the Steam Plant over the Blow Room and Electrical in Blast Furnace Bowling League competition last night In the grid match Cast House edged Pig Machine, 2-1.

Top point-makers were H. Crespo 154, 442, W. Cieply 170-465; R. Altemare 167-440; B. Finley 188-464; S. Szabo 179-463; W. Valko 189-483.

Standings Pig Machine 6-3; Cast House 6-3, Steam Plant 6-3, Mechanical 5-4, Electrical 3-6, Blow Room 1-8.

Ray Echart Sets New BMM Records

Ray Echart stole the show in Blooming Mill Millwrights Bowling action last night as he rolled new single and three-game high marks of 232 and 570.

The Aiellos, McVickers and Furios topped the Bethams, Brennimans, Geiselharts.

High scorers in addition to Echart were Vic Caruso 186-501, Fotey Loulis 194-480, Rudy Cheroki 186-465, Walte Wentzell 167-461, Phil Faraci 195-433, Andy Dyky 150-425, John DeLuca 172-477, Ralph Greco 178-455, Andy Valko 191-448, Joe Pallini 164-420, Emil DeMarco 204-451.

Standings — Geiselharts 6-3; McVickers 6-3; Furios 5-4; Aiellos 5-4; Brennimans 4-5; Bethams 1-8.

Banner Crowd to Witness Tilt if Rain Holds Off

Bellmar and Perryopolis lift the lid on the local 1957 football season tonight at Perryopolis and from all advance notices, the game should be a "humdinger".

Both teams have several veterans back, the Hurricanes from a team which posted a mediocre 4-5 mark last season, Perry's returnees from a team which chalked up one of the best marks in the school's history, a 7-2 chart.

Coach Bap Manzini of the Hurricanes says his lads are ready for the Commodores and Don Mains, who guides the Perry gridders replies, "So are we." Game time tonight is 8 o'clock under the lights at Perry's field.

Although Perry is only a Class B school and Bellmar Class A, the Commodores can hold their own in such company as they proved last season. Bellmar handed the Mainsmen one of their two losses in last year's opener, 20-6 but after that A foes had trouble with Perry.

Starting lineups were named by both coaches today. Manzini called on Bill Kubin and Percy Cranford at the ends, Ron Schmidt and Gary Grant at tackles, Tom O'Toole and Frank Burgess at guards, with Bill Mullen at center. The backfield will show Larry Petras at quarterback, Larry Rankin and Ralph Greco at the halves and rugged Reggie Kostelac at fullback.

Mains nominated Mike Kurutz and Ron Coldren at ends, Tom Bateman and Joe Schrock or John Bednar at the tackles, Julian Schoaf and Frank Steck at guards with Ellsworth Cottom at center Don Coldren or Lenny Swiantk will be the quarterback, with Chauncy Chambers and Bob Piersol at the halves and Big John Russell the li'l-bucker at fullback.

Randy Sandy Choice Over German Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP)—Randy Sandy, the middleweight with the musical name, is favored to beat out a 10 - round victory tonight against stubby German Frank Szuzina.

Although Sandy is the 8-5 favorite, the 25-year-old German promises to give him a rough battle in the televised fight at War Memorial Auditorium.

Sugar, Carmen Using 'Rights'

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (UP) — The middleweight title fight between Sugar Ray Robinson and Carmen Basilio, two deadly left-hookers, probably will be decided by a right hand.

Each champion is throwing more rights in training for the Sept. 23 bout than before any previous contest.

Robinson, grooming here at the Long Pond Inn for his defense of the 160-pound crown at Yankee Stadium, blasts his sparmates with at least four varieties of rights — smashes to the body, short uppercuts to the chin, straight shots to the head and and even the long "bolo" uppercut to body or head.

Orioles Sign Two

BALTIMORE (UP) — Dick Nebinger, a 17-year-old third baseman, and 19-year-old pitcher Jimmy Lehew, both of Baltimore, have been signed by the Orioles to farm club contracts. Nebinger goes to San Antonio of the Texas League, while Lehew goes to Aberdeen, S.D., in the Class C Northern League.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Timing Lost

Good golf demands good timing—obviously. But sometimes, even when you are playing fairly regularly, you will find your timing gone. How to get it back?

The most effective means I know of recapturing lost timing is to head for the practice tee and hit some balls with a soft, easy swing, keeping the feet very close together. Take two or three practice swings before hitting each ball. Keep at it until you feel your sense of timing (coordination) returning. And you will; I guarantee it..... .. ....

This is not a way to learn to hit the ball for beginners; it is a corrective measure only. My theory is that you lose your timing because you begin to try to hit all shots with too much power. Muscles take over which have no place in the golf swing. This slowing down process as prescribed above will give the swing back to the right muscles. And keeping the feet together will rid you of the tendency to swing too hard.

NL Attendance 'Up' 100,000

CINCINNATI (UP) — National League attendance is running almost 100,000 fans ahead of last year and league spokesman Dave Grote said today an all - time league record is expected for a "normal year."

A total of 8,025,741 fans have seen NL games this year through Sept. 11 and that figure represents an increase of 99,823 over the 7,925,918 total on the same date a year ago.

Milwaukee, with a total home attendance of 1,802,731, seems sure to better its own all - time league record of 2,131,388 set in 1954.

Philadelphia, St. Louis and Brooklyn also have passed the million mark and Cincinnati is only 12,232 fans shy of that total.

Dodgers Practically 'Out'

Milwaukee Needs 11 More Wins

By MILTON RICHMAN

There was a familiar folding sound in Milwaukee today but this time it was the beaten Dodgers, who were merely folding their tents and getting ready to go home.

Quickly dispelling any notions of a collapse such as they experienced last year, the Braves beat Brooklyn, 2-1, Thursday night to take a five-game lead in the National League race and all but knock the Dodgers out of it.

Milwaukee, with 15 games remaining, now needs only 11 more victories to clinch the pennant. Brooklyn, eight games back, is just about ready to trot out the old slogan, "Wait until next year."

The second-place Cardinals are five games off the pace and even though manager Fred Hutchinson hopefully keeps talking up his club's chances, they are anything but bright.

Get Only Four Hits

The Braves collected only four hits off southpaw Danny McDevitt Thursday night but they used two of them in the ninth inning to score the winning run.

In the American League, the White Sox downed the Red Sox, 7-1, cutting the Yankees' lead to five games and setting the stage for their final "showdown series" with the Bronx Bombers.

Al Lopez' Chicago hopefuls meet the Yanks for the last time this season in a two-game series that will start today with southpaw Billy Pierce (9-0) of the White Sox facing left - hander Whitey Ford (9-4).

Wilson Cops 4th

Right - hander Jim Wilson became the first American Leaguer to beat Boston five times this season when he scattered nine hits in gaining his 4th victory Thursday for the White Sox. Nellie Fox led Chicago's 14-hit attack with three hits while Sherm Lollar drove in three runs. Luis Aparicio homered off loser Frank Sullivan.

Detroit cashed in on errors by Herb Plews and Neil Chrisley for six unearned runs and an 8-5 victory over Washington. Senator starter Chuck Stobbs was the victim of both miscues as he suffered his 19th defeat. Ray Boone and Frank Bolling homered for Detroit to help Duke Maas to his 10th win.

NFL Cards' Grid Mentor Sees Chance for Title

CHICAGO (UP) — Coach Ray Richards of the Chicago Cardinals explains his 1957 team the same way a race track trainer tells why his star colt, beaten in an allowance race, will win the big stake.

"Throw out those exhibition games," Richards said today. "I don't feel disappointed that we lost. You can win all of them, and it doesn't help you when the season begins.

"If you don't use the rookies in them, you can't see them, and if you don't see them, how do you know whether they'll help you? We've got several backs coming out of service and a lot of veteran experience, and I think with this added bench, we've got as good a chance to win as anybody."

The quarterback is the key to Richards' split-T attack, and he believed that Lamar McHan, his erratic signal caller who was suspended once last year for indifference, would be as good as anybody in the National Football League this year.

"He's matured a lot," he said, "and all you have to do with him is leave him alone. I've always been in his corner and if I hadn't been sick when he was suspended last year, it never would have happened. Everybody is behind him now, and I think this year he'll realize his potential."

If McHan falters, though, Richards might find an adequate replacement in California's Paul Larson. "He's a good ball handler and a very good thrower," he said. "He's got a wonderful delivery, but he's got to learn timing, to let loose of the ball at the right time, and to throw while he's off balance."

The Cards have plenty of backs, both for offense and defense, with Ollie Matson, second in ball carrying in the league last year, slated for one starting spot for sure. He also will be back on kickoffs and punts and if necessary can do a job as a pass defense expert.

To pair with McHan and Matson, Richards has Johnny Olszewski, the certain starter, and Joe Childress at fullback, and Childress, Dave Mann, or Frank Bernardi at halfback. But he'll use Mann at end too on offense, coupling him with Max Boydston, Leo Sugar, and Gern Nagler.

Pass Defense Best In League

His pass defense, best in the league last year, again will have Lindon Crow, Bernardi, Jim Sears, Dick "Nighttrain" Lane, Woodley Lewis, and Julian Spence.

The Cardinals probably will have only two rookies on the roster when the final cut to 35 is made and Richards was high on both of them, defensive end Cecil Harp from College of Pacific, and a gigantic center, Earl Putman, who weighs 305 pounds and stands six feet, six inches, from Arizona State. "Putman will start on offense and he could be a great one," Richards said. "He's amazingly agile, he catches the ball well and he can even fake on passes. He could go both ways for us if we want him to."

Otherwise, veterans will hold down every job and Richards believed they'd be playing all out in every game. "They did a lot of thinking over the winter," he said, "particularly about the Green Bay and Washington games we lost by three points when we'd been ahead. There's a difference in spirit this year — they know they've done it and they can do it again. We missed by a game-and-a-half last year, and this year, we could go all the way."

Saints, Dukes Ahead In DIC Bowling

Stautner Sprains Ankle, May Miss Bear Exhibition

LIGONIER, Pa. (UP)—Pittsburgh Steeler tackle Ernie Stautner sprained an ankle Thursday and will probably be absent from the Steelers-Chicago Bears exhibition game Saturday night at Forbes Field.

Stautner arrived in camp late this season and did not play in the first two exhibition tilts. He saw action, however, in both the Philadelphia and Detroit games and was instrumental in the victories recorded by Pittsburgh.

The Bears arrived in Pittsburgh today and will conduct final drills tonight at Forbes Field. They are favored to defeat Pittsburgh for the second time in this season's exhibition play. They whipped the Steelers, 24-7, in the exhibition opener at Jacksonville, Fla.

Two players recently purchased by Pittsburgh did not arrive in time for Thursday's practice.

They were Jug Girard, a halfback purchased from Baltimore, and Dale Atkeson, a fullback obtained from Washington. Girard is expected to handle the punting duties.

Japan - Canada in Global Opener

DETROIT (UP) — The Global World Series of baseball, Milwaukee industrialist Richard S. Falk's idea to promote better understanding among the people of the world through ball and bat, opens its six-day stand tonight with co-title favorite Japan meeting Canada.

The eight competing teams from Canada, Colombia, Holland, Japan, Mexico, Hawaii, Venezuela and the United States Thursday night heard the series described as "person-to-person" diplomacy by Koichiro Asakai, Japan's ambassador to the United States.

The series is making its first Detroit appearance after two years in Milwaukee. The United States won both times.

Little Recovering

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UP)—Lawson Little, the one-time king of the fairways, was recuperating at his home today from the heart attack suffered a month ago. Little, former U.S. Open and Amateur champion, was released from the Monterey Hospital Thursday. He is not expected to return to competitive golf until some time after the first of the year.

Rain Forces Pirates To Play Six Games In Just Three Days

CHICAGO (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, with Thursday's doubleheader against Chicago rained out, play six games in three days, beginning with two against the Cubs today.

Bob Friend (11-7) and Bob Smith (1-3) were scheduled for mound duty today against Moe Drabowski (10-13) and Don Elson (5-6).

The Pirates meet Chicago for two more games on Saturday and then play the Cards at St. Louis in a doubleheader Sunday.

The current western trip by the Pirates, which will end with the St. Louis games Sunday, will be their last western swing of the season.

Jocko Conlon, who will umpire the Chicago - Pirate series, remarked he thought Ron Kline, who has won his last six consecutive games, was "one of the best pitchers in the league without the knuckler."

Kline has recently been depending on straight pitching and has credited it with helping to build up his present streak.

Outfielder Johnny Powers will rejoin the Pirates in Chicago. He played most of the season with Columbus of the International League Saturday.

Powers was optioned to the Jets in May after spending the first five weeks with the Pirates. He hit 29 homers with the Jets, was third highest in the league in RBI's with 97 and batted .295.

NY Builder Offers Stadium 'At Cost'

NEW YORK (UP)—A New York builder, who tried during the last month to buy both the Giants and Cincinnati Redlegs, today offered to construct a new stadium for the Brooklyn Dodgers "at cost" in order to "keep National League baseball in this city."

Samuel J. Lefrak, 39, president of the Lefrak Building Corp, said he hoped the offer "will help put the city of New York in a position to make the best possible deal" for Dodger President Walter O'Malley. Lefrak's offer came on the eve of today's special private meeting of the New York City Board of Estimate.

Navy, Panthers, Penn State Seen As Tops of Eastern Grid Elevens

By FRANK LITSKY

NEW YORK (UP)—Navy, Pittsburgh and Penn State figure to fight it out for the Eastern college football championship, with defending champion Syracuse, Army and Holy Cross shaping up as the leading challengers.

Princeton appears the best in the Ivy League, which again will be at a disadvantage because of its rule prohibiting spring practice.

Navy is so loaded with veterans that no sophomore has been able to make either of the first two teams. Bob Refisnyder, a 235-pound tackle last year, was shifted to center to anchor a 213-pound line, heaviest in Annapolis history. Quarterback Tom Forrestal and halfback Ned Oldham head the backfield.

Although Pittsburgh lost eight starters, including All-America end Joe Walton, the talent is there. The backfield is fast and should be healthy, for all four starters are future doctors. Key men in the line are center Charley Brueckman and tackle Jim McCusker. The usual "suicide" schedule, starting with national champion Oklahoma, could be the Panthers' undoing.

Eighteen returning lettermen soothe Penn State graduation losses which included quarterback Milt Plum and guard Sam Valentine. Quarterback Al Jacks and halfback Bruce Gilmore are only two of the talented 1956 sophomore backs who will play again. The only possible soft spots are at tackle and guard.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder agrees Syracuse faces "a tremendous task" in replacing All-America back Jimmy Brown and the entire center corps. Best man on the Syracuse team should be Dick Lasse, a 210-pound end, who once ate 15 steaks at a sitting and another time did 75 deep knee bends —with a 220-pound tackle on his back.

Army faces a tougher schedule with guard Stan Statler, quarterback Dick Bourland but otherwise limited or injury-prone talent. Holy Cross is blessed with able sophomores and juniors and enviable depth.

Backs To Spare

In the Ivy League, Princeton has backs to spare and plenty of good sophomores but could experience difficulty up front. Defending champion Yale suffered heavily from graduation, especially in the backfield.

A capsule look at other Ivy League clubs:

Brown — Veteran backfield; improving.

Cornell — Line finally shaping up; should win a few games.

Dartmouth — Rebuilding after heavy graduation losses.

Pennsylvania — Eight starters back; OK if line holds up.

Among other independents:

Boston College — Experienced players; new stadium.

Boston University — New coach (Steve Sinko); 10 starters return.

Colgate — New coach (Fred Rice); little manpower.

Lynnwood Ladies Aid in Meeting; Reports Are Given

The Ladies Aid of the Lynnwood Lutheran Church met on Wednesday evening in the social rooms of the church. Mrs. Andrew Kuhl was in charge of the devotional period.

The program opened with the singing of a hymn, responsive reading from Psalms and scripture. Prayer by the leader and the Lord's Prayer concluded the devotional.

The Rev. James Percy, church pastor, spoke on the sector plans for stewardship.

Routine reports were given, and announcement was made by Mrs. J. M. Uritzie concerning the promotion dinner to be held at the First Lutheran Church of Greensburg. Mrs. Chester Zimmer, a missionary home on furlough from her duties in India, will be the speaker.

Mrs. John Klanchar reported on the bake sale held by the group at the Rostraver Fair.

Irene Dunne Sworn in as UN Delegate

WASHINGTON (UP)—AFL-CIO President George Meany, movie actress Irene Dunne and four other members of the U.S. delegations to the U.N. General Assembly were sworn in Thursday.

Miss Dunne, an alternate representative, told Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the overflow ceremony "this is really a great day in my life."

Administration officials said the actress, wife of Dr. Francis D. Griffin, was chosen because she is regarded as an outstanding American woman with a great interest in international affairs.

Besides Meany, those sworn in as representatives were Herman B. Wells, president of Indiana University, and Reps. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) and A. S. J. Carnahan (D-Mo.).

Three Killed In Crash of Stratojet Bomber

BASTROP, La. (UP) — Three Air Force officers were killed in the crash of a B47 Stratojet bomber near here Thursday, but the pilot bailed out and survived.

The pilot, Col. Joe C. Briley, 41, hospitalized with a broken arm, said he did not know why the other crewmen failed to get out of the plane, which went out of control at 36,000 feet and crashed in the woods three miles south of here.

The dead were identified by the Air Force as Capt. Doy Baxter, 33, Fort Worth, Tex., the co-pilot; Capt. Ralph O. Harvey, 33, Greenhurst, N.Y., also a pilot; and Capt. Robert P. Bergman, 33, St Paul, Minn., radar observer and navigator.

Briley, who commands the 3245th Test Group at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., said the plane was on a test mission from Eglin to Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. The pilot said he climbed to 36,000 feet to avoid bad weather, then lost control and the plane went into a dive.

Pupils Should Look Forward to Lunches

With school back in session it's time again for many district mothers to pack lunches for their sons and daughters.

And there's no reason why the youngsters shouldn't look forward to the lunches, according to Mrs. Miriam R. Long, Westmoreland County home economist.

"If lunches have a variety in flavor, texture and color, they'll be appreciated by the children," said Mrs. Long.

Every lunch box should contain milk in some form, two servings of fruits or vegetables and a substantial sandwich. The combination of foods should depend on the menu for the rest of the day.

Mrs. Long said the lunch boxes should be planned ahead when you buy and cook. Last minute "pick-ups" are rarely good choices.

Fresh fruits in season as well as frozen, canned and dried fruits are good items for the noon meal.

So are celery sticks, radishes, pieces of raw cauliflower, carrot and turnip sticks, tomatoes and cucumber slices. They add a real variety.

Whole wheat or other whole grain bread is best for sandwiches. Meat, fish, cheese, and hard-cooked eggs are good fillings. Be alert for new ideas for sandwiches and use your imagination to create an interesting filling out of miscellaneous leftovers. Mix chopped roast pork with apples, ginger, and mayonnaise. For variety, hollow out rolls and fill with a sandwich mixture.

For a special added attraction, remember that everyone loves a surprise — perhaps children most of all. Tuck in stuffed prunes or dates, salted nuts, or other tidbits.

An appetizing box lunch may feature ground ham, American cheese, mustard and catsup on whole wheat or rye bread, carrot and raisin salad, celery sticks, fresh peaches, and milk.

Mrs. Long said teenagers should especially be encouraged to drink milk.

And it isn't true, that milk is fattening, Mrs. Long pointed out. Girls with the trimmest waistlines are usually the biggest milk users. It's the high-caloried food that tends to add weight, not milk.

Wife Doesn't Like Idea of Being Watched

CHICAGO (UP)—Richard Higgins, 31, believes a man's home—however well-ventilated — is his castle.

His estranged wife, Virginia, 26, felt differently.

At least she didn't think much of his practice of boring holes in the walls of their home to spy on her.

Higgins' "espionage" activities were described to Superior Court Judge Elmer N. Holmgren Wednesday by Mrs. Higgins' attorney, William Marosco.

Higgins followed his wife whenever she left the house, made peepholes in the walls of their house to peer at her, and bored a hole in a first floor ceiling to look down on her, Marosco charged.

The hearing ended with Higgins agreeing to plug up the holes and to give up his "cloak and dagger" activities. He will also have to pay his wife $36 weekly support until her suit for divorce charging cruelty is decided.

Air Physician Predicts 3,000 Mile an Hour Trips

CHICAGO (UP)—An Air Force physician predicted today that aircraft soon will be capable of flying at altitudes of about 38 miles and speeds over 3,000 mph putting the conquest of space within man's grasp.

Capt. W. M. Snowden of the aviation medicine division, Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Washington, spoke at an atomic symposium during the 22nd annual congress of the International College of Surgeons.

"Scientists and engineers backed by the United States government are headed for outer space," Snowden said.

He said the cost will be "as astronomical as its objective," but added its success is a national necessity because "no nation will be safe unless it can also navigate the vacuum that hang overhead."

State Can Govern Hiring, not Firing

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Justice Department has ruled the administration can compel independent state commissions to hire employes under civil service standards but said the right does not extend to firing of those workers.

The decision was given in a formal department opinion to Andrew M. Bradley, state property and supplies secretary, and secretary of the state Executive Board, composed of Gov. George M. Leader and top members of his administration.

It applies to employes of the Public Utility Commission and the state Fish and Game Commissions.

The department said that by law the state Executive Board has the power to "standardize the qualifications for employment...of persons employed by the administrative departments, boards and commissions."

Such standards could include civil service protection for employes by Executive Board action, the ruling said.

But the department said that on the question of firing employes, legislation sets forth clearly that the power resides ntirely in the appointing authority... in this case the commission members.

"The Legislature's failure to extend to the Executive Board any control over the discharge of commission employes, leads us to the conclusion that the board could not compel the commission to accept executive civil service in regard to the discharge of its employes," the department said.

Hurricane Carrie Heads to Graveyard

MIAMI (UP)—Carrie headed toward the North Atlantic graveyard of hurricanes today with little chance of breathing her 110-mile-an-hour winds on land.

The week-old tropical tempest roughly was paralleling the U.S. coastline, some 1,800 miles at sea. Weather forecasters write it off as a threat to the mainland, but warned ships to exercise caution in its path.

Reports early today put the hurricane's center about 1,800 miles due east of Miami. It was heading northward at about 10 miles per hour.

Wild birds do not sing more than eight or ten weeks in the year.

How to buy "vitamins"

Door-to-door peddlers are around now, selling vitamin preparations and nutritional supplements. The talk is mighty convincing. But, remember, talk won't do a thing for you. There's only one way to be sure of what vitamin you need if any are needed at all. That is to see your family physician. He and he alone is qualified to prescribe for you. Always buy vitamins or nutritional supplements from a registered pharmacist. Then you'll know what you're getting—and you'll get your money's worth.

$600,000 Church Has to Be Razed, Before Completion

CHICAGO (UP) — A $600,000 church going up on Chicago's South Side is going to have to come down. It's smack dab in the path of a proposed superhighway.

The huge new progressive Baptist Church has been under construction since April, 1955, and more than $400,000 worth of the structure has been completed.

Chicago Public Works officials said they previously warned church officials they were building in the middle of the future south expressway, but they went right ahead with construction.

Then the city tried to figure out a possible alternate route to bypass the church, but without avail.

The upshot, according to Public Works Commissioner George L. DeMent is that condemnation proceedings against the church will begin within two weeks.

Farmers Warned To Take Care Against Rats

District farmers were warned today that now is the time to take steps to protect their stored wheat from rats.

Associate County Agent Dale P. Jackson estimated that thousands of dollars worth of wheat will be lost unless rat - proofing gets under way immediately.

Jackson said that poison bait and cleanliness are two important deterrents to the destructive rodents. He also advised a half-inch hardware cloth or galvanized material to close all holes more than a half inch wide to keep rats and other rodents out of bins.

To stop rats from climbing outside walls, Jackson suggested nailing strips of galvanized metal along sides of the bin about 40 inches from the ground. The sheet metal should be bent out at the top. Since rats can jump only about three feet, they can not get above the metal.

Galvanized metal nailed along the lower part of doorways prevents rats from gnawing around the doors. Hardware cloth stops rodents from entering bins through air ducts in forced air drying systems.

Eliminating trash destroys hiding places for rodents. They like to work under cover and won't stay where they can't find shelter.

Poison bait stations also aid in the battle. Jackson recommended warfarin or pival for the poison.

Two Released In Miller Death

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP) — Police said today there was no evidence against two men implicated by an auto salesman in the death of Wheeling, W. Va. gambler Nick Miller.

Chief William Thomas said the men named by Albert Tavan have been questioned. He said the two are from Weirton, W. Va., but spend most of their time in Steubenville, Ohio.

Both were released following questioning.

Thomas said Tavan, during an argument with the two men recently, had been "whipped" by one of them.

Miller's body was found stuffed in the trunk of his 1957 automobile last Aug. 22 in a residential section near Pittsburgh.

Giant Mushroom

CHICAGO (UP) — Steak lovers who like their meat "smothered in mushrooms" almost had their wish until hotel cooks ruled against it. They decided not to serve guests a 6-pound mushroom more than 2 feet in diameter that came from a Wisconsin forest.

Hole Swallowing Up Houses

FARNSWORTH, England (UP) —A crazily growing hole in the ground swallowed up homes and property in this little manufacturing community today and sent its 10,000 inhabitants into near panic.

About 50 houses on three streets had plunged into the cavity by this morning and police said it was growing at the rate of six inches an hour.

Residents of other homes in the area were evacuated by police and firemen.

The mysterious hole started as a tiny cave-in on Fylde Street early Thursday. At dawn it suddenly spread into a gaping hole which swallowed up two houses.

Within minutes other houses on the block started trembling. Police ran down the street warning inhabitants of the tiny, closely-packed dwellings in this Lancashire community.

Many ran out into the streets in their pajamas and watched helplessly as their homes and belongings tumbled into the growing hole.

By this morning the zig-zag cavity was 30 yards across, 800 yards long and 20 to 30 feet deep.

Cause of the hole was unknown. Police said recent heavy rains could have burst a main sewer running underneath the town.

It's Up To You As Parent

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

All too many parents are guilty of contributing — unknowingly, of course — to the visual difficulties of their children. Unless a child complains of eye trouble or has been classified as a retarted reader, they don't bother to have his eyes examined.

This just isn't fair to the child. I advise a thorough eye check-up for every youngster by the age of three. Follow this consistently with another eye examination of least every two years, unless your youngster complains of difficulties or shows the various symptoms of visual troubles I have already listed.

In addition, each youngster should be given a color vision test once during his school years. School eye tests are very helpful, but take your youngster to your own eye specialist, too.

Among the various methods used in schools are the old reliable Snellen Test, the Massachusetts Vision Test and the Ortho-Rater, Telebinocular and Sight-Screener Tests.

Some schools — only a few, fortunately — probably are guilty of contributing to eye difficulties by providing poor illumination and color schemes.

Most of our modern schools have good indirect lighting, white ceilings and pastel walls. Light colors such as these, of course, reflect a maximum of light.

But the floors and desk tops should be light-colored, too. Dark floors and desks force the pupils of the children's eyes alternately to dilate when viewing the dark colors and to constrict in the glare from the light colors. Light finishes all around will help reduce eye fatigue.

Glossy finishes, naturally, should be avoided, since they reflect an undue amount of light and glare.

Incidentally, these color schemes might bell be followed in your own home, at least in rooms where your children do their home work or a great deal of reading.

But even if your youngster does have visual trouble, don't despair. Take corrective measures, and his school advancement is likely to amaze you.

Properly prescribed glasses will help restore any lag in work because of poor sight. Visual training under a specialist's direction, it has been found, actually helped to increase a pupil's I.Q.

So help protect your youngster's eyes. They're the only pair he'll ever have.

Question and Answer

A. S.: Is there any value in eye exercises of the muscles of the eye in cases of nearsightedness?

Answer: Although certain eye exercises can train a person who is nearsighted to see a little better, the actual deformity in focusing is not corrected.

In Hollywood—

Fragile Actress Stars In Her First Western

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — London-born Jean Simmons, a hot-house flower of the old world, has been transplanted to western ranch life both in fact and fiction.

The fragile little actress is starring in her first western movie and preparing to settle permanently on a 10,00-acre ranch in Arizona with her husband, Stewart Granger.

A self-styled Cockney, Jean says being roped into the corral of ranch life suits her fine.

"Actually, we have two ranches," she said with a pixie smile. "Sort of a 'his and hers' arrangement. They're 200 miles apart, and we raise cattle on both of them.

"Jimmy (Granger's real first name) bought his 66,000 acres in New Mexico first. It's bigger than Monaco.

Lonely Cows

"There are only 800 cows on the ranch (the T4J brand). They must get terribly lonely out there all by themselves. Three cowboys live on the property in the ranch house. Come to think of it, they must get lonesome, too, it's miles away from everything.

"That's why Jimmy bought my ranch (the Yerba Buena). He was afraid the first one would be too isolated for me. My ranch has 500 cows. They don't seem to be as lonely as the others."

Jean, speaking in clipped sentences—punctuated with elfin giggles—is greatly amused by her switch to cowgirl.

"We've had Jimmy's ranch for a year, and mine for seven months," she said. "But I've only spent a total of seven weeks out there.

"We'll have to work like the devil in movies to pay for them. And we'll probably be too old to enjoy the ranches when we retire."

Granger searched the country for a horse tame enough for his petite wife. He finally found a weary 9-year-old nag indifferent to the ways of mankind—even to hearing commands of "giddap" and "whoa" given in an English accent.

Rides Old Horse

"When I was cast for my first western, 'The Big Country,' the director wanted me to ride a horse," Jean said. "I refused unless they let me ride old 'Harry Boy'. So he's in the picture with me," she laughed.

What does Jean do out in the wide-open spaces?

"Jimmy and I just ride around looking at the cows and talking to the cowboys," she said. "I'm learning to roundup cattle and paint fences. And we go rowing on one of the two lakes on my ranch.

"It's a far cry from life in London, but I enjoy it. We've given up our home here in Hollywood and will live full time in Arizona—when we're not making movies.

World of Television—

Ed Murrow To Cuba For Show

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — The channel swim . . .

Ed Murrow's "Person To Person" will make a hop into Cuba, this season if technical knots can be ironed out. Ernest Hemingway would be the subject of Murrow's visit. The CBS-TV show also plans to telecast at least one interview from Canada.

Jack Paar will shepherd his NBC-TV "Tonight" show into Hollywood, Chicago and Miami for one week stands. . .Ann Sothern is set as emcee of NBC-TV's first spec from Las Vegas on Nov. 16.

Steve Allen goes color on Oct. 6. . . Leonard Bernstein will turn out visual essays on the piano and perhaps, opera, on NBC-TV's "Omnibus" this year.

Honor Patti Page

Oklahoma is renaming a chunk of Highway 66 "Patti Page Highway" in honor of their native daughter and CBS-TV's "Big Record" star. . . Pat Carroll, the blonde comedienne who used to caper on the Sid Caesar show, is expecting her second child this semester.

Ethel Barrymore will be the subject of NBC-TV's second "Command Performance" spectacular this December. . . Stripper Lili St. Cyr will unmask for Mike Wallace on his Oct. 5 ABC-TV opus.

Polly Bergen is battling the flu bug—she went on CBS-TV's "To Tell the Truth" this week despite the wobbles. . . Robert Q. Lewis is living proof that radio is still remunerative — the CBS radio star rented an ocean-going yacht, complete with crew, for his current vacation on the Riviera.

CBS-TV had to rewrite Rex Harrison's entire part for their upcoming spec, "Crescendo," — he said it was smellevision. . . Associates of Sid Caesar say it'll cost $100,000 per week to put a new Caesar half-hour show on TV—$60,000 for time charges and $40,000 for production. ABC-TV has pitched Saturday and Sunday night slots at the comic.

ABC Planning Color

Tallulah Bankhead signed on for Desi and Lucy's second one-hour show on CBS-TV. . . CBS-TV plans to repeat the "Secret Life of Danny Kaye" this season. . . Charlie Van Doren comes back to TV this Sunday on NBC's "Wide Wide World" — he'll make at least 10 appearances on the show during the year.

ABC-TV exects are thinking about going color in 1958—the initial shows to go rainbow would be "Disneyland," "Voice of Firestone" and the Saturday "Lawrence Welk Show". . . Lindsay Crosby, who'll appear with his dad, Bing, on the first CBS-TV "Edsel Show" this fall, is a private at Fort Ord, Calif.

The Oct. 13 "The Web" show on NBC-TV will be a sneak preview of a projected new series, "The Quill and the Gun"—it's about a frontier town newspaperman. . . Eli Wallach will star in the movie adaptation of TV's "The Line-Up."

Pay Television on Trial Run

NEW YORK (UP) — Federal Communications Commission Chairman John C. Doerfer said today he hopes the FCC will reach a decision on a trial run for pay-as-you-see television "within the next few weeks."

Doerfer, an advocate of the proposal, told the Radio and Television Executives Society that a decision was long overdue.

The FCC has scheduled a special meeting Tuesday on the subscription TV question. It called on interested parties last July to set forth the where, when, and how of a trial demonstration.

Doerfer said the FCC would be remiss in its duty if it delays a decision much longer "merely on grounds that many members of the broadcast industry believe it should be left up to Congress."

He said "congressional action, if imminent or reasonably certain, would warrant a delay, but in the absence of any such prospects, I hold that suggestions of delay for such a purpose be rejected. After all, various proposals affecting subscription television have been pending in Congress for more than four years."

Doerfer added that "both proponents and opponents of subscription television are entitled to some definite determination soon."

Sunday Shopping Is Disturbing To Most Religious Leaders

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Once upon a time, you could tell when it was Sunday because all the stores were closed.

You could buy a newspaper or a bottle of medicine at the drug store. You might find a service station or a delicatessen open. But that was about it.

Today, in thousands of American communities, it's as easy to go shopping on Sunday as on any other day.

Hardware, furniture, and appliance stores advertise "all-day Sunday sales." Real estate brokers and automobile dealers count Sunday as one of their best days. If you need a loaf of bread or a quart of milk to feed unexpected guests at Sunday dinner, you don't have to hunt around for a small delicatessen — some supermarkets are open for business as usual.

This trend toward a seven-day business week is profoundly disturbing to Protestant and Catholic religious leaders alike. Even liberal clergymen, who once endorsed the repeal of Blue Laws which forbade Sunday movies and baseball games, are concerned now about the extent to which the pendulum has swung in the other direction.

Counter-attack Planned

Belatedly, the churches are mounting a counter-attack. They are reading to a generation which has never memorized the 10 Commandments the ancient passage from the 20th chapter of Exodus:

"Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God. In it thou shalt not do any work. . ."

An interesting aspect of both the Catholic and Protestant campaigns is that they have been addressed primarily, not to the merchant who opens his store on Sunday, but to the customers who shop there.

"Businessmen sell on Sundays only when there are customers," observed Samuel Cardinal Stritch of Chicago in a pastoral letter appealing to Catholics to plan their weekday shopping so as "to make Sunday purchases unnecessary."

Catholic Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle of Washington protested in a pastoral letter that "Sunday has been degraded to bargain day."

He said the church has no objection to "the conduct of such business as is necessary for the public good and the safeguarding of health." He said sale of medicines, the operation of restaurants and public transportation facilities, and a few other essential services fall into this category.

Practice Unjustified

"But there is no need or justification for the sale of articles on Sunday which can easily be purchased on weekdays. The convenient shopping hours in the evening provide an ample opportunity for shopping even to those completely occupied during the day."

O'Boyle said one of the worst aspects of Sunday shopping is that those who practice it are "depriving sales people of the opportunity to observe Sunday fittingly."

While most Catholic prelates so far have relied on the moral force of earnest appeals, Archbishop Edward D. Howard of Portland, Ore., last month issued a letter directly forbidding Catholics in his three-state province of Oregon, Idaho and Montana to work, conduct business or shop on Sunday. The instruction is morally binding on all Catholics in the matter for confession.

Protestants have been moving in the same direction, both on local and national levels. At the behest of the Washington Federation of Churches, Protestant pastors in the Capital have been urging their congregations not to patronize Sunday sales. Detroit's Protestant Council of Churches, apparently proposing a weekday boycott of stores that stay open on Sunday, exhorted church members to "vote by your purchases for those businesses that do not unnecessarily stay open on Our Lord's day."

Communities Alerted

The Economic Life Department of the National Council of Churches has proposed that Protestant churches throughout the nation join with "civic and other religious groups" to press for "community recognition of Sunday as a common day of relaxation from work." It said that this community recognition could be achieved "both through the enforcement of present laws and proposals for new ones."

Every state except Nevada now has Sunday observance laws. Most of these laws limit Sunday business to "essential" services. For many years, these laws were rarely enforced. But there has been a movement in many areas lately to dust them off—and even to tighten them.

Recently, the New Jersey Supreme Court upheld the application of such a law in a crackdown on automobile dealers who stayed open on Sunday. Courts in Illinois, Connecticut and other states have also upheld Sunday closing statutes in the past year.

NATION'S ONLY — Mrs. Marcell Morgan, 42, shown at home with one of her seven children, is believed to be the nation's only woman fire fighter, a member of the Whitehall, O., fire department. Whitehall is a Columbus suburb. The City council appointed her a firewoman.

The name Honduras, the Central American country, is Spanish and may be translated "wavelike."

Red China Exchange Of Newsmen Brighter

WASHINGTON (UP)—Prospects appeared brighter today for Red Chinese and American newsmen to visit each other's countries despite U.S. rejection of Red China's proposal for a reciprocal exchange of correspondents.

Communist China proposed Thursday at Geneva, Switzerland, that the United States and Red China agree to swap newsmen "on an equal and reciprocal basis." The State Department immediately turned thumbs down on the proposal.

U.S. officials said however the United States was merely spiking any idea of a man-for-man swap that might imply recognition of the Peiping regime. Any such agreement likely would bring the wrath of pro-Nationalist China congressmen down on the State Department.

Authorities said Red Chinese newsmen who apply for admittance to the United States stand a good chance of being approved if a check proves them to be bona fide reporters and not spies.

The United States already has given 26 American news firms authority to send representatives to Red China although this country maintains a general ban on American travel to the Chinese mainland. None of the newsmen has received permission from Red China to enter the country.

Informed sources said it may actually work out that the same number of Red Chinese newsmen visit the United States as American reporters go to Communist China. But they said this will not be the result of a general swap agreed to by the United States. Red China may simply control the travel in such a manner.

Power Hits High

WASHINGTON (UP) — Electric power generation hit a new high during July in the nation. The Federal Power Commission said the July electricity output of 54,347,890,000 kilowatt hours was almost 10 per cent greater than the previous high for the month.
